

BUILDING OUR FUTURE
SECURING OUR LEGACY

2020

ANNUAL REPORT

MISSION

Project Morry is a comprehensive, year-round youth development organization dedicated to empowering children from under-resourced communities to create a positive future. Project Morry is an anti-racist organization, committed to equity for black and brown lives, and against all forms of systemic racism.

Our ten-year commitment to each child closes the opportunity gap through a combination of academic enrichment and support, leadership development, and an exceptional summer camp experience. Youth participate free of charge.

Project Morry students exemplify our core values of resilience, personal responsibility, teamwork, and engaged citizenship. Our alumni are marketing managers, teachers, financial analysts, artists, entrepreneurs, and Fulbright Scholars.

They are leaders at school and in their communities.

Morry Stein (1936-1994)

MORRY'S LEGACY

Project Morry was founded in 1995, inspired by the vision of camping industry icon, Morry Stein, and his wife Amy, owners of Camp Echo Lake. Morry believed in the power of camp to change lives and believed it should be available to all children regardless of economic status. As chairperson of the American Camping Foundation, Morry had raised over $1 million to send low-income children to summer camp, when his life was taken in a plane crash in 1994.

Determined to make his dream a reality, Morry's friends, family, colleagues, and campers created Morry's Camp, whose scope and impact 25 years later has grown to become Project Morry.

Morry's dream come true.

Morry's dream is inspiring. Every time I hear it, I feel like I carry his legacy. I want my Project Morry little brothers to also carry on his dream because Morry wasn't just a man. He was the start of something big, bigger than this camp, bigger than the lake. That something is the community of Project Morry.

-Khalil, PM Alumni

LEADERSHIP LETTER

Each and every day we have the glorious opportunity of being a part of the dream that is Project Morry.

It is a dream based in hope and in action. A dream that bases itself in communities of individuals who believe in and support us in so very many ways. Our kids, our families, our staff, our alumni, our schools and agencies, our board, our donors, our volunteers; all combine to create an organization founded in allowing individuals to realize their OWN dreams.

How lucky are we to watch our kids as they examine their motivations, build self-confidence, understand life's decisions and consequences, set their standards of achievement at personal excellence, and reach for the stars. When one young person stands tall and feels proud in the center of our circle, it impacts us all.

Project Morry has evolved over the past 25 years from the dream of providing a summer camp experience for inner-city youth into a year-round youth development organization. Educational opportunities are created to promote critical thinking and support decision-making skills. In addition to serving nearly 400 young people each year, we share our lives with over 375 wonderful, marvelous, remarkable graduates of the Project Morry program. These alumni return to visit us, work for us, participate as volunteers, share their perspectives, and serve as role models to our younger boys and girls. They make an impact on all of us with their enthusiasm for new-found independence, challenges, resiliency, choices, decisions, and hopes.

This year, as we all stopped and reset, our kids, families and communities did the same with the additional obstacle of inequity. And yet, they continued to show up, albeit virtually as we figured out how to continue to support one another. We as their network of support, and quite honestly, they ours.

How proud Morry Stein, the inspiration behind Project Morry, would be of the accomplishments of our kids. How proud he would be of all who have contributed to the realization of the dream.

2020 also marked the passing of our friend, colleague, founding board member and past president Scott Ralls after a hard-fought battle with cancer. Scott was a doer who did for us all – always. When Scott was asked to be a part of something, he gave to it NOT only his broad shoulders but also his tireless energy. And he did it not just for the moment, but committed the time, passion, and wisdom to make it a movement. We miss him and think of him every single day as we continue the work that he believed in so very much.

And so, on this 25th celebration of Project Morry, we simply say, thank you to you all.

PROGRAM UPDATES

Student and Family Partnership

Project Morry works with our students and families from 4th grade through their first year of college. When children are recommended to Project Morry by a guidance counselor, social worker, or teacher, they must have a family member who is committed to working with Project Morry to support their child for the next 10 years. We honor our families' willingness to make that long-term commitment by engaging them consistently, frequently, and transparently on their aspirations, concerns, and needs to build a partnership based on trust and shared goals. Our families and students are the backbone of the Project Morry community.

Year-Round Engagement

Unlike many school year only or summer youth programs, Project Morry works with our students and families year round. Students attend monthly school year meetings in their home communities or at our office in Westchester. Between meetings, Project Morry staff is in constant contact with parents, students, teachers, guidance counselors, and other resources to provide a network of support to our families.

Each summer our youth attend 3 weeks of sleepaway camp at Morry's Camp in rural Glen Spey, New York. Students explore traditional camp activities like swimming, hiking, and canoeing as well as performing and fine arts. They also participate in our summer educational curriculum which incorporates youth led inquiry-based learning on current events and social justice as well as academic support in math, reading and writing. Our innovative STEAM curriculum emphasizes creativity, problem-solving and real-world collaboration, linking art and design to science, technology, engineering, and math.

College and Career Readiness

High school students attend monthly workshops on the college application process, financial aid, resume building, interviewing skills, time management, and financial literacy, in addition to regular college tours and career panels throughout the year.

Launch of the Bridge Year Program: A 10 Year Commitment to Each Child

It was fitting that in our 25th year, Project Morry expanded our commitment to youth to 10 years with the launch of the Bridge Year program, which supports our students as they navigate the critical first year after high school with academic, emotional, and financial resources. Components of the 10th year program include summer and winter break workshops; stipends for books, meals, and travel; regular check-ins with Project Morry staff; and newsletters with advice and reminders.

Social and Emotional Learning

All elements of Project Morry's program are designed to support our students' long-term wellbeing and the development of the Social and Emotional skills needed to thrive. Each meeting with our youth incorporates activities that help students in every age group build and maintain relationships to create a network of support, develop a positive self-identity, use their voice to ask for help and advocate for themselves, and treat setbacks and challenges as learning experiences to prompt growth. Twice a year, students participate in formal assessments to measure progress, identify successes and challenges, and inform Project Morry staff on how we can better support them.

Pioneer Profile

"At Project Morry I learned how to be a leader. We were put in so many different situations where we either had to lead our groups or other groups. I think a lot of the training we got at camp really prepared us for that which was amazing and one of the best things about Project Morry."

Shawntay Dickerson
Fayetteville, GA | Grill Operator

"Important qualities or practices that I gained at Project Morry? Being able to communicate first and foremost. Feeling supported. At the end of the day, talking about the highs and the lows. It was nice - the camaraderie and the compassion for one another as people. Just to be around that much love, that much energy, and that much fun. There's nothing like it."

OUR WORK IN CONTEXT

Project Morry's Response to the COVID-19 Pandemic

2020 was one of our most challenging years yet for our students and communities. In March 2020, as our communities began to shut down due to COVID-19, we knew it was more important than ever to keep our students and families engaged. Already facing opportunity gaps and economic challenges, they were, and continue to be, impacted by the disproportionate effect of the pandemic on low income families and communities of color.

Project Morry rose to this critical moment by reimagining our programs to engage our students remotely on a weekly basis, creating structure and consistency in uncertain times. We continued to provide academic support, stress management and mindfulness, as well as time management, to support their educational goals. Staff worked with our 11th and 12th graders on college readiness, ensuring they met critical deadlines for applications and financial aid, and connected to virtual college fairs and college-led Q&A sessions. Throughout the year, our exceptional program staff focused on keeping our students and families engaged, assessing their needs, and providing them with a network of support.

In May of 2020, in accordance with New York State guidelines, we made the incredibly difficult decision not to open Morry's Camp, our flagship summer sleepaway camp, for the first time in 25 years. In lieu of in-person camp, we launched MC Live @ 25- our virtual camp designed to engage, connect, and bring joy to our young people during the summer. More than 100 kids at all grade levels participated in electives like social justice, photography, dance, fitness, art, and culinary arts, as well as community time each day, and special events like virtual campfires and game nights. Much like our in-person camp programming, MC Live built our students' socio-emotional learning, their critical thinking, as well as their skills for communication and collaboration.

SOCIAL JUSTICE & RACIAL EQUITY

For the last 15 years, Project Morry has actively worked to become an anti-racist organization. 98% of our students are people of color who continue to endure systemic and individual acts of oppression and violence. During 2020, we listened to our students, families, alumni, and community and recommitted to the work we must do as a community and as an organization.

This has meant the expansion of social justice programming for our students and the use of a racial equity framework in all programming. We have prioritized training for all full time and summer staff. Project Morry's Board of Directors has also committed to increasing diversity on the board to better represent the communities of our students and families as well as racial equity training for board members.

Statement on Anti-Racism:

Systemic racism perpetuates the injustices and inequalities present in our country.

Systemic racism perpetuates the injustices and inequalities our communities experience every day.

Project Morry will continue creating spaces and opportunities to strengthen, inspire, and plant the seeds necessary to combat these injustices and inequalities.

We will continue the social justice conversations with all our students, cultivating the skills necessary for these future leaders to enact the change and challenge the injustices wherever they may be.

We will keep our commitment to equity for black and brown lives.

We will continue to explore various means of activism and will support our communities in their work towards making these necessary changes.

We stand with our communities in the fight for humanity and against injustice.

WHAT'S NEXT

Building our Future, Securing our Legacy

As with everything Project Morry does, the BUILDING OUR FUTURE, SECURING OUR LEGACY campaign places our kids front and center. With this campaign we are deepening our commitment to them by expanding our level of support and widening their opportunities.

Project Morry is also committed to responsibly stewarding the generous funding we have received from our supporters who have—and will continue to—invest themselves and their resources into our young people.

ANNUAL BENEFIT UPDATE

25th Anniversary Virtual Gala Celebration

On November 17, 2020, the Project Morry community came together virtually to celebrate 25 years of empowering young people and creating long term change. The interactive virtual experience allowed nearly 500 sponsors, donors, alumni, volunteers, community partners, and current families from across the country and internationally to participate in the celebration and raised over $750,000 to support our mission. We were thrilled to honor the Stein Family with the Founder's Award and the Pioneers, Project Morry's first class of graduates, with the Morry Award.

The Stein Family- Founders Award Recipients

The story of Camp Echo Lake starts in 1946 when Bill and Edith Medine, Amy Medine Stein's parents, founded the camp in Warrensburg, NY. Amy will tell you that the love of camp is carved deeply into her heart. The story of Amy and Morry Stein begins at Brandeis University where cheerleader met football captain. They married and raised their three sons, Eric, Tony and George. Morry and Amy became second generation owners to Camp Echo Lake, creating an environment that was built on imbuing a deep sense of community in each child.

By 1970, the success of Echo Lake had them asking what more they could do to help others. Realizing they wanted to share the transformative impact of summer camp with all children resulted in the Echo Lake Idea, a precursor to Project Morry. Prior to his untimely death in 1994, Morry was working on ways to expand the Echo Lake Idea to even more children.

Project Morry fulfills Amy and Morry's dream of empowering young people to envision and create positive futures for themselves and their communities. Project Morry's 10 year commitment to each child and partnership with their families creates the same profound sense of community experienced at Echo Lake. The Project Morry board, staff, and the hundreds of current students and alumni have also become part of Amy and Morry's family.

For 25 years, the Stein family's support and leadership of Project Morry has been steadfast no matter the circumstance, no matter the ask. Their commitment, values, and wisdom have allowed the organization, and most importantly the children and families served, to grow and succeed beyond what could have been imagined. Amy, George, Eric, Tony and his wife Emily are proud to be a part of Project Morry's legacy and even prouder to be a part of its future.

The Pioneers- Morry Award Recipients

The Pioneers, Project Morry's (then Morry's Camp) very first class of kids, started their journey in 1996 as the true manifestation of Morry Stein's dream. That first summer, kids from Bridgeport, CT and boroughs throughout NYC (the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens) piled anxiously onto buses and said goodbye to their parents. For many, it was the first time they had been away from home, gone swimming, or slept in a cabin in the woods. What many kids knew as a normal part of childhood was being made possible to kids from under-resourced communities, by people determined to carry out a man's legacy, and trusting parents who had the faith to let their children leave home for a first time.

The program was a test of trust on the part of both the kids and their parents, and patience from staff who were learning as they went. That partnership, over 9 years from 1996 to 2004, created a year round program and network of support for the Pioneers and all future classes of Project Morry students. The result: 14 young people, who learned about themselves, accepted each other's differences, became leaders, and grew into their own.

The Pioneers continue to shape Project Morry by mentoring current students, serving on the board of directors, and raising their voices, all while completing their education, building careers, starting families, and raising their own children, some of whom are part of the next generation of Project Morry.

Kids That Give

Kids that Give was created for parents and youth who wanted an opportunity to impact their communities year-round. Since 2000, hundreds of kids of all ages and backgrounds have created fundraising projects and donated their time to Project Morry's mission. Kids That Give projects are as inspired and varied as the kids who create them. They include collecting camp and school supplies or fundraising as part of a mitzvah project, charity basketball game or walk-a-thons. Kids That Give are also social entrepreneurs who develop and run their own businesses selling handmade jewelry, personalized sneakers, or custom stickers and donating the profits to Project Morry. www.ProjectMorry.org/Kids-That-Give

Camps That Give

Since our beginning, the camp community has supported Project Morry. Camps That Give is a unique opportunity for private camps and their families not only to give back but is our shared values of community, leadership, and youth development in action. Over 40 day and sleepaway camps actively participate through fundraisers like swim-a-thons, carnivals, or fun runs as well as year round volunteer events, special giving days, social media appeals, and event sponsorships.

"I gained so many amazing skills and qualities from Project Morry. From a young age I learned how to work and communicate with large groups. I also learned how to be a leader and independent."

"When you're at camp, you get thrown into a lot of leadership roles like mentoring younger campmates or leading an art class. When you're a kid, these things can seem a little bit scary but when you get older you realize the importance of these experiences and how valuable they are in my day-to-day life."
